Energy [Applicable to Platinum Product only]

A) For the facility within which this material is manufactured/formulated, how much energy* is used to manufacture the material? Calculate these values either based on metering of the specific production line or allocating full facility energy use to the portion of manufacturing represented by this product. Please enter values and units in the table below.

Manufacturing Energy* (MJ/kg of product; or indicate correct units)	Calculation Method Used
	Inline Metering	Production Allocation

*Manufacturing energy is the portion of the facility's total energy use which can be attributed to manufacturing the material, plus an appropriate allocation of energy used in other facility operations.
